Whoa - hold up! This was one of those cases where so much junk was left behind I just knew Oscar the Grouch was gonna jump out from behind a pile of "who knows what" and just go to town gnawing on my ankle like a chicken bone! Luckily you don't have to take such risks when you come to check out this fixer-upper that just hit the market in Jackson, MO... because the clean-out crew did a great job hauling everything off! If 'ol Oscar was ever hiding in there - well, he's off to the next one now! If you've been shopping for a home in this area for long then you already know that fixer-upper or not - opportunities for a 3 bedroom 1 bath with attached garage and basement in a solid neighborhood are typically high-competition in this town. If you're handy and looking for a project then this just might be your chance to take advantage of less competition and snag a solid house that admittedly needs work... but the upside potential is definitely there!
